We are already noticing significant impacts on physical activity at our school from the 2014-2015 funding and it is exciting that we are able to maintain and add to these changes.

The biggest sustained impact across the school has been the increase in children's activity levels. With additional resources and promotion within the school, more children are enjoying participating in physical activity than in previous years. This will follow them through the school and help them become more physically literate and prepared for transition to secondary school. Moreover, they will be better equipped for lifelong participation in physical activity and sport.

Staff and parents (feedback from surveys) have commented on how much more discerning the children are with their lifestyle choices. The children are highly engaged in sport and want to further develop their knowledge and skills. They are motivated to achieve more and progress further in their sports, as their confidence levels increase.

There is also an increase in new sporting friendships and team spirit within the school. Children are not only supporting each other more and celebrating their successes during physical activities but also in other areas of their school life.

Our children regularly attend sport related trips, including football matches and athletic competitions and we are further increasing our participation at these events, exposing the children to competitive situations.

Since the employment of a sports coach and two 'after school' sports coaches, the children continue to receive additional, high quality, PE teaching each week. They are exposed to a greater variety of sports and games in both competitive and non-competitive events.

Over the last year school's sport teams are making greater progress than in previous year, evidenced as our league table results are continuing to improve. Our boys' football team are in the Camden League final.

The funding has also been impactful for some reluctant girls. They are much more engaged with sport and want to take an active role in P.E lessons and playtimes. We are also extremely proud of the achievement they are making in girl's football league, where they are rapidly establishing themselves as a strong team in Camden.

We are proud to have a number of girls competing at a high level in ballet, majorettes and gymnastics. We actively encourage our children to attend 'out of school' trials and where there are barriers we help to facilitate this. We celebrate the children's out of school sporting achievements on the Parent's Noticeboard, which further motivates our other children.

Purchasing spare PE kits for the children (who have mislaid or forgotten them) ensures that every child takes part in PE through each week, thus continuing our commitment to developing children's fitness levels and their leading of a healthy, active lifestyle.

The investment in new sports equipment further supports our commitment to health and fitness as well as cross-curricular learning. This equipment will not just be available at playtimes and during PE lessons but used to enrich the children's other learning (e.g. measuring the distance of a thrown javelin in mathematics).

With more new equipment of a greater variety, the children are exposed to new experiences and this engages the children, as well increasing access and active levels for all children, regardless of ability. These resources will continue to be available and replenished and will benefit pupils joining the school in future years.

We regularly canvas the children about the sports clubs they would like to attend and the School Council have worked hard to make changes to the playground and after school clubs.

We are also pleased to be improving the number Pupil Premium children who attend sports clubs. Currently for 2015-2016 42% of Pupil Premium children attended a sports club. We aim to increase this to 70% in 2016-2017, a target that we are confident of meeting.
